

People soon become thirsty again after drinking water. But the water I give takes away thirst altogether. It becomes a well of water within, giving life. - Jesus, from the Gospel of John

Those who struggle with mental illnesses are thirsty for acceptance, support and meaningful relationships. Offering hope and healing through best-practice interventions, friendships and the power of faith, the Well Community provides a place to belong. Founded in 2002, the Well is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. While it started as a simple, church outreach to a handful of people, the Well has grown into a flourishing, significant ministry among adults coping and managing serious mental illnesses. The Well's philosophy of care, relational engagement and holistic care combine to make a significant impact upon those we are called to serve.
